Re: Frank Liu v. The Nielsen Company (US), LLC, et al.; Case No. 1:22-cv-09084-JHR-OTW

Dear Judge Wang:

Defendants The Nielsen Company (US), LLC and TNC US Holdings (collectively, “Defendants”) respectfully submit this reply in support of their Letter Motion to Stay Discovery. (Dkt. 101.) Defendants’ pending Motion to Dismiss constitutes good cause for purposes of staying discovery, and Plaintiff cannot demonstrate that a brief stay would result in any meaningful prejudice to him.

A pending motion to dismiss may, in some circumstances such as those in the instant case, “constitute good cause for a protective order staying discovery.” Gross v. Madison Square Garden Ent. Corp., No. 23-cv-3380, 2023 WL 6815052, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 17, 2023); see also Richardson v. City of N.Y., No. 21-cv-5080, 2022 WL 2003340, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. June 6, 2022) (granting motion to stay discovery because defendants had a pending motion to dismiss); Altimeo Asset Mgmt. v. Qihoo 36 Tech. Co. Ltd., No. 19-cv-10067, 2022 WL 1663560, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. May 25, 2022) (same); Cota v. Art Brand Studios, LLC, No. 21-cv-1519, 2022 WL 767110, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 14, 2022) (same); Alapaha View Ltd. v. Prodigy Network, LLC, No. 20-cv-7572, 2021 WL 1893316, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 10, 2021) (same); Ema Fin., LLC v. Vystar Corp., 336 F.R.D. 75, 83 (S.D.N.Y. 2020) (same). To determine whether a pending motion to dismiss warrants a stay of discovery, courts consider the following factors: “(1) the breadth of discovery sought,¹ (2) any prejudice that would result, and (3) the strength of the motion.” Press v. Primavera, No. 1:21-cv-10971, 2022 WL 17736916, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 16, 2022) (citing Hong v. Leong Fin. Ltd. (Singapore) v. Pinnacle Ltd., 297 F.R.D. 69, 72 (S.D.N.Y. 2013)) (internal quotation marks omitted). These factors strongly favor staying discovery pending resolution of Defendants’ motion to dismiss.

“The ‘strength of the motion’ factor contemplates whether the party seeking the stay has ‘substantial arguments for dismissal,’” and as “to that factor, courts [] consider whether the resolution of the pending motion to dismiss may dispose of the entire action.” Id. at *1 (finding that because “Defendant’s success on the motion would dispose of the entire action, this factor weighs in favor of granting the requested stay”); see also Alapaha View Ltd., 2021 WL 1893316 at *2 (granting motion to stay discovery because defendant had a “potentially dispositive” motion to dismiss pending); Richardson, 2022 WL 2003340 at *2 (granting motion to stay discovery because defendants’ pending motion to dismiss was potentially “dispositive of some or all of the case”); Broccoli v. Ashworth, No. 21-cv-6931, 2023 WL 6795253, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 11, 2023) (granting motion to stay discovery because defendants’ pending motion to dismiss sought “to dismiss the [complaint] in its entirety”); Afua v. Mediterranean Shipping Co. (USA) Inc., No. 22-cv-2111, 2022 WL 2181432, at *3 (E.D.N.Y. June 16, 2022) (finding “good cause exist[ed]” and a stay of discovery was warranted when defendant had a pending motion to dismiss that, if granted, would dismiss all of plaintiff’s claims). If granted, Defendants’ pending Motion to Dismiss would dispose of all of Plaintiff’s claims. For that reason alone, and in the interests of judicial economy and preventing costly and time-consuming discovery, a motion to stay should be granted pending resolution of the Motion to Dismiss.

A brief stay of discovery also will not result in any prejudice to Plaintiff. Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss is fully briefed and ripe for decision. See Palladino v. JPMorgan Chase & Co., No. 23-cv-1215, 2024 WL 312522, at *3 (E.D.N.Y. Jan. 26, 2024) (granting a stay of discovery and finding plaintiffs had not established prejudice because “under the parties’ proposed briefing schedule . . . the parties’ briefing will be complete in two months”); Elnenaey v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A., No. 20-cv-5430, 2021 WL 7908626, at *1 (E.D.N.Y. Oct. 7, 2021) (granting a stay of discovery because the Court had “not yet held a discovery conference or entered a schedule in th[e] matter,” and therefore “a limited stay will not prejudice plaintiff”). A discovery conference has not been held, discovery requests have not been served, and a trial date has not been set. There is no evidence that Plaintiff will suffer any harm whatsoever if the Court briefly stays discovery until after it rules on Defendants’ pending Motion to Dismiss.

Defendants vehemently disagree with, and deny, Plaintiff’s baseless, inappropriate, and unprofessional accusations, and will not respond substantively on any of those matters. Defendants also decline to address Plaintiff’s arguments relating to workers’ compensation cases, which are irrelevant to the underlying civil case.

For the foregoing reasons, as well as the reasons set forth in Defendants’ initial letter motion to stay (Dkt. 55), which the court granted, in part (Dkt. 84), Defendants request a stay of all discovery pending resolution of their Motion to Dismiss.
